

Puppy Adoption Party Games

Two simple games for a six-year-old birthday party

5 kids

ages 5-7

20-35 min total

The two games

1. Puppy Training Academy

An active, no-elimination obstacle game where each child teaches their stuffed dog silly puppy skills and earns badges.

2. The Missing Birthday Bone

A short detective scavenger hunt with clue cards that leads the group to a hidden bone stash or small treat.

Dad setup in 15 minutes

- Print pages 3, 5, and 6 if you want the cut-outs. Pages 2 and 4 are rules.
- Cut action cards and clue cards before the party. Leave bone tokens as a sheet or cut them apart.
- Use tape, pillows, chairs, hula hoops, laundry baskets, cones, or cardboard boxes for the course.
- Keep it cooperative. The goal is for every puppy to graduate and every detective to solve the case.

Best for: big energy right after adoption

Each child carries their adopted stuffed dog through silly training stations. At each station they draw or choose a training card, complete the challenge, and earn a puppy badge. No one gets out. Every puppy graduates.

- Stuffed dogs, the action cards from page 3, and the badges or bone tokens from page 6.
- A few household props: pillows, chairs, a blanket tunnel, laundry basket, tape line, or cardboard boxes.
- Optional: play upbeat music and announce each puppy like a tiny dog show.

How to run it

- 1 Make 4 quick stations.
Jump the Pillow, Crawl the Tunnel, Fetch the Bone, Fancy Sit, Vet Check, or Dog House Delivery.
- 2 Kids go one at a time or in pairs.
At five kids, pairs keep the line short. One kid performs while another cheers or holds the next card.
- 3 Draw a card at each station.
If a card is too hard, let them pick a different one. The laugh matters more than the rule.
- 4 Award badges.
After 4 completed cards, announce: Puppy graduated from Puppy Training Academy.

Tiny script you can say

"Welcome, trainers. Your puppies are cute, but are they ready for birthday party duty? Let us find out. Every puppy that tries their best graduates today."

Why this one works

- Six-year-olds get movement, pretend play, and fast success.
- The stuffed dogs are the stars, so shy kids can act through their puppy instead of feeling watched.
- It is flexible: skip stations if the party is running late.

Pillow Hop

Help your puppy jump over 3 pillows.
Add a silly bark at the finish.

Fancy Sit

Balance your puppy on your head or shoulder for 5 seconds.

Fetch!

Toss a soft bone or sock into a basket.
Your puppy gets 2 tries.

Tunnel Time

Carry your puppy through a blanket tunnel or under a chair.

Vet Check

Check ears, paws, and tail. Say:
Healthy puppy, ready to party.

Dog House Dash

Deliver your puppy safely to the dog house and back.

Tail Wag Dance

Do a 10-second dance with your puppy. Everyone claps the beat.

Quiet Puppy

Tiptoe across the room without waking the sleeping puppy.

Collar Parade

Show off your puppy collar with a runway walk and one pose.

Best for: after decorating, before hot dogs or cake

The puppies have lost the Birthday Bone. The kids become Puppy Detectives, read the clue cards together, and follow a short trail to the hidden bone stash. Use the clue cards on page 5, or read them aloud if the group is still learning to read.

Setup

- Hide cards 2 through 6 before the party. Keep card 1 in your pocket.
- At the final hiding place, put bone tokens, stickers, fruit snacks, or a tiny party favor.
- Use only 4 clue cards if attention is fading. The game still works.

Recommended hiding order

Card 1 start with Dad

Card 2 by the dog houses

Card 3 near the collar-making table

Card 4 under a chair or table

Card 5 near the hot dog area

Card 6 final stash in a basket, box, or gift bag

How to run it

- Gather kids and stuffed dogs. Say the Birthday Bone has vanished and only Puppy Detectives can solve it.
- Give the birthday girl the first card if you want her to start the hunt.
- Have kids take turns carrying the next clue so one fast kid does not take over.
- At the final stash, everyone gets a bone token or treat. No first-place prize needed.

Tiny script you can say

"Detectives, our puppies have a serious problem. The Birthday Bone is missing. Sniff carefully, look closely, and stay together. We solve this as a pack."

Quick parent note

If readers are mixed, let kids identify the picture or color on each card while you read the words. The detective feeling still lands.

Clue 1

Start

Read aloud:

Our Birthday Bone is gone, oh no. First sniff where puppy houses glow.

Parent hint: hide next card by dog houses

Clue 2

Houses

Read aloud:

Good puppies need a name and style. Look where collars wait a while.

Parent hint: hide next card at collar table

Clue 3

Collars

Read aloud:

A collar shines, a tag is neat. Now search beneath a place to sit.

Parent hint: hide next card under a chair

Clue 4

Undercover

Read aloud:

You found the clue down low today. Next sniff where tasty hot dogs stay.

Parent hint: hide next card near food area

Clue 5

Snack Scent

Read aloud:

Hot dogs smell amazing, true. The final bone is hiding from you.

Parent hint: hide final card near stash

Clue 6

Solved

Read aloud:

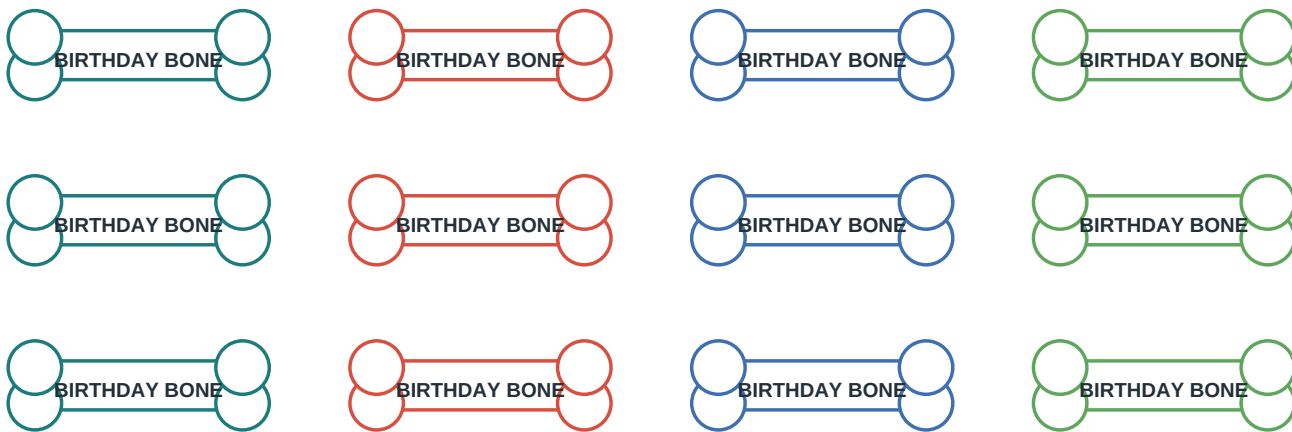

You solved the case, detective pack. The Birthday Bone is safely back.

Parent hint: put treats or tokens here
